The meeting of the Myrtle Tree Farm Club at the Myrtle Tree M. E. Church last night was so well attended that seats could not be found for all and it was difficult to even find standing room for many.

The program given by the club was unique in that those taking part moved themselves back through the scale of life, some 10, some 20 and some even 40 years, and all the members of the club were boys again.

The welcome address was made by the president, A. L. Smith. The club then gave the club yell. The following was the remainder of the program:

Song, "Missouri Land"—the club.

President R. P. Hosmer of the Chamber of Commerce made a short talk explaining the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce Nodaway County films. He emphasized the fact that the Chamber of Commerce was working for the good of the county, and not merely for the good of Maryville. He then showed how the interests of Maryville and of the county as a whole were intermingled and what was done for the good of Maryville or of any community or town in the county would indirectly help the rest of the county.

Four reels of the Chamber of Commerce Nodaway County film were shown. Mr. Hosmer explained the pictures as they were shown.

After the pictures doughnuts and pie and coffee were served to all in the basement of the church. There were forty seven pies.

Several members of the Maryville concert band went with the party and played between numbers. Those of the band who went were: C. D. Kutschinski, director, Henry Buhler, Lawrance Shanks, William Gaugh, George Bramble, Carol Hogan, Ferd Masters and Leon Cannon.

Arch Frank and Pete Dietz were also there. They were accused by several of the men of flirting with the "chorus girls" after the show.

Among the others from Maryville were: R. P. Hosmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Harold Bellows of Chicago, Joe Jackson, Fred Wolfers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Diss, Ralph Marcell, L. H. MISSOURI PACIFIC TRAIN HELD UP LAST NIGHT

Robbers Take $952 From Express Car —L. H. Holland, Clerk, Wounded Resisting Robbery

Kansas City, Dec. 28—Police here are searching for bandits who robbed the express car of Joplin-Kansas City train of the Missouri Pacific of $952, last night.

L. H. Holland, an express clerk, was shot in the left leg while resisting the robbery.

The bandits boarded the train near Pleasant Hill, Mo., climbing up between the express and combination mail and baggage coaches.

When L. H. Holland, 26 years old, express clerk, 1620 Benton boulevard, attempted to pass from the express car to the combination coach a few miles west of Pleasant Hill, the bandits covered him with revolvers and forced him into the front car.

"Put 'em up high," the bandit leader commanded.

Holland dived for his revolver instead.

A shot rang out, as the taller bandit fired. One bullet grazed Holland's left side and the other fractured his left arm.

"Now you behave," came from the taller of the bandits as Holland fell.

Dragging the clerk into a corner of the car, the smaller bandit proceeded to search Holland.

The bandits took Holland's revolver, keys and money.

The bandits then rifled several boxes of express matter and forced a steel money box open, obtaining approximately $952, according to a hurried check by express company officials.

"Now we're going after the mail," the bandits informed Holland, "and we're going to lock you in here."

Retreating through the door, the bandits locked it and entered the mail and baggage coach. In the next half hour, before the train reached Sheffield, the bandits rifled more than a dozen mail sacks. A trail of slashed sacks and mail matter ripped open and scattered on the floor was left behind.

When the train neared Sheffield and slowed down, the bandits tossed off their loot and jumped to the ground. Police later found trails indicating accomplices met the bandits in Sheffield.

Woodstock, Ill., Dec. 28—Federal Judge Charles Donnely, dean of Illinois jurists, died yesterday. Funeral services will be held Friday.

FAIRFAX FARMER COMMITS SUICIDE

SHOOT SELF IN HEAD WITH SHOT GUN

FINANCIAL WORRY CAUSE

Funeral Services Held This Afternoon Conducted by Rev. T. J. Puckett of Maryville

Frank McNeil, a prominent farmer of Atchison County, committed suicide Monday afternoon at his home three and one-half miles southwest of Fairfax. McNeil met death by placing the barrel of a shotgun in his mouth and pulling the trigger with a corn stalk. Death was instantaneous.

Despondency and financial worry were given as the cause for McNeil's actions. During the peak of high land prices, he had purchased considerable land and his financial condition had caused him great worry of late. For the last two or three weeks especially he had shown his burden of worry and at different times had told his family that he couldn't stand it much longer.

On Monday morning he left home with a neighbor to go out to the field to repair some fences, taking a shot gun with him to do some hunting.

As he did not return to the house for dinner, his family became uneasy about him and sent the hired man out to find the reason for his failure to return to dinner. Arriving at the field the hired man found McNeil roving about apparently in a demented state of mind. As the hired man approached him, McNeil placed the mouth of his shot gun in his mouth and with a cornstalk pulled the trigger. The entire top of his head was blown off by the charge and death was instantaneous.

Mr. McNeil is survived by his wife and five small children and his mother, who has been making her home with them. Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Irish Grove Church near Fairfax. Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Puckett of Maryville attended the funeral, Rev. Puckett conducting the funeral services. Burial was in the Irish Grove Cemetery.

PERSONNEL INDICATES ONLY PARTIAL REVISION

Many of Those Named So Far Known To Oppose Any Constitutional Changes

As the nomination of district delegates to the constitutional convention progresses, it is becomming increasingly apparent that the most that can be expected from the convention is a partial revision of the old constitution of 1875, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The type of district delegates nominated in a number of districts by the two party organizations indicates a well-laid plan to head off the drafting of a new constitution and the rejection of any considerable portion of the present constitution.

Under the present outlook there can be no reorganization of the state government, nor the elimination of any of the seriously restrictive features of the present constitution.

Gov. Hyde favors the reorganization of the executive branch of the government, and the reduction of the number of elective officials, but this, too, seems impossible of accomplishment under the present public and political temper.

Tax revision, which has been advocated by both political parties in their platform for many years, is likely to find rough sledding, due to the activities of country politicians, who favor the return to the old fractional basis.

The enfranchisement of women, it was expected, would have its effect in the shaping of the organic law, but it is apparent now that the women will have few delegates in the convention and little chance to put over their ideas of public health, education, social welfare and things of that nature.

By Frank Charlton
International News Service Foreign News Editor.

New York, Dec. 28.—Since the armistice ended fighting in the great war there has not been a year so filled with events of world-wide importance as marked the course of 1921. International problems of the first magnitude have been settled, and 1922 dawns with conditions nearer to pre-war normal than at any other time since 1914.

The outstanding development was the drafting of the Four-Power Pacific Treaty at Washington by the United States, the British Empire, the Japanese Empire and France. This treaty aims to prevent war in the Far East—the Orient being the chief trouble zone at present. According to the terms of the pact, the signatory Powers shall submit any grievance to arbitration.

Armament Reduction.

Of almost equal ranking importance was the movement initiated by the United States for the reduction of navies and limitation of land armaments.

These two events, both of which grew out of the Washington conference have put the United States in an important new position in world politics. American isolation, which began to crumble during the great war, is now a thing of the past. The Powers must reckon with the United States in any big movement of international significance in the future.

Another big peace development which came at the end of the year was the Irish settlement. While Britain held the Irish problem to be a domestic issue, it is now generally admitted that it had ramifications outside of the United Kingdom which fostered trouble and unrest. Credit for the settlement of this seven-century-old problem goes to Premier Lloyd George, the wizard of British politics.

After holding out and threatening trouble for the Allies, Germany finally accepted the Allies' indemnity demands. Under the terms of the ultimatum imposed last spring, Germany is bound to pay about $38,000,000,000. Here again the United States figured Germany appealed to this country, but Secretary of State Hughes advised Germany to settle upon the Allies' conditions.

Threatening Polish War.

The Silesian issue, which caused an armed uprising and for a time threatened war between Germany and Poland, was settled by the League of Nations without outside interference. Upper Silesia (which had been a German province before the war) was partitioned, part going to Germany and part to Poland. Germany resisted the decision, but was bound to accept it.

There was considerable fighting in 1921. War broke out in the Near East

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

DROPPING THE "NUISANCE TAXES."

The buzzing crowd around the soda fountains and soft drink places, like flies around molasses, will not be unduly elated over the repeal of the war tax on this class of products. The majority of these people ar spenders, and may not have been deterred much by these taxes.

But retail merchants who sell refreshments and various little articles covered by the so-called "nuisance taxes," are more than pleased to escape this burden. These assessments necessitate much bookkeeping, and merchants fuss over them a good deal, fearing to make some error that would involve collision with the government.

More time and effort is required to run a store when these taxes have to be computed and it adds to the cost of doing business. Some of these articles are to be taxed at the source, which is where the assessment should fall if it is to be placed at all. Taxing retail trade adds to the already too high expense of distributing.

As the early bird gets the worm, so does the early apple.

His stay there should inspire him with more respect for the government that shelters him and his liberation should give him more love for it.

Hundreds of thousands of jobless men have cut loose from their moorings, says the Jefferson City Capital-News. They are drifting about the country, seeking work on "the other side of the hill." A census taken now would show great changes in population during the last year. "For Rent" signs are becoming increasingly numerous in cities. That shows one of the human currents—away from the cities, back to the farms and small towns. Business depression is re-districting the population.

MICHIGAN TO HAVE HUMANE AND SCIENTIFIC PRISON

Detroit, Dec. 28—Overcrowding of Michigan prisons makes it impossible to extend to their inmates many privileges they otherwise would have, but many flagrant abuses have been corrected, and plans to give Michigan the most enlightened, humane and scientific prison system in the United States already are being put into effect, Governor Alex J. Groesbeck has announced.

Things You Don't Know, But Should---About Missouri

Do you know—

That only seven former governors of the state are living and that only one man has ever been governor more than one term?

That Taum Sauk mountain, in Iron county, is the highest point in Missouri?

That the lowest ground is at Cottonwood Point, in Pemiscot county?

Hundreds of such bits of interesting and unusual information are contained in the 1921-22 "Centennial" Blue Book of the state, the first copies of which were received here yesterday by State Senators David M. Proctor and M. E. Casey.

This year's Blue Book is the most comprehensive ever issued since the first edition in 1854. It contains 912 pages.

The volume was prepared by Charles W. Fear of Joplin, under supervision of Secretary of State Charles U. Becker. Distribution will be through the state senators and representatives. Each senator will receive within the next week or ten days 100 copies and each representative fifty copies for distribution to their constituents. Heretofore distribution has been handled by the secretary of state direct.

Former Officials Listed.

A list of all elective state officers who have served since the state was admitted to the Union is given in the section devoted to executive officials. This tabulation shows that the seven former governors of the state now living are David R. Francis, elected in 1888, now residing in St. Louis; Lon B. Stephens, elected in 1896, residing in St. Louis; Alexander M. Dockery, elected in 1900, now residing in Gallatin; Joseph W. Folk, elected in 1904, now residing in St. Louis; Herbert S. Hadley, elected in 1908, now residing in Boulder, Colo.; Elliott M. Major, elected in 1912, now residing in St. Louis, and Frederick D. Gardner, elected in 1916, now residing in St. Louis.

The first governor was Alexander McNair of St. Louis, who was elected in August, 1820. He died March 18, 1826. Governor Hyde is the thirty-sixth chief executive of the state.

The only man who has served more than one term was John Miller of Cooper county. He was first elected December 8, 1825, at a special election called to fill a vacancy, was again elected at the regular election in August, 1828.

Leads in Population Gains.

The percentage of increase in population in Kansas City from 1910 to 1920 is greater than that of any other city in the state for the same period, according to figures given in the census section. It shows that the population of 324,410 in Kansas City in 1920 is 30.6 per cent greater than the 1910 census. During the same period Springfield increased 12.6 per cent; St. Louis 12.5 Joplin 6.8 per cent and St. Joseph only seven-tenths of 1 per cent. Details of the census of all cities and counties of the state are given.

Missouri was 100 years old in 1920 and in commemoration of the observance of the 100th anniversary of the admission of the state the Blue Book gives a detailed history of the official centennial observance.

State's Highest Point Given.

Taum Sauk mountain, in Iron county, six miles southwest of Ironton, is the highest point in the state, 1,800 feet above sea level, according to information furnished the Blue Book by H. A. Buehler of the bureau of geology and mines.

Other high points are Buford mountain, three miles west of Iron mountain, 1,700 feet; Big Creek mountain, near Taum Sauk, 1,700 feet, and historic Pilot Knob, also in Iron county, 1,500 feet. All are in the St. Francois mountain range. The lowest point in the state is Cottonwood Point, 229 feet above sea level. It is located on the Mississippi river in the exterme southeast corner of the state. The elevation of Kansas City is 722 feet.

Everything About the Judiciary.

One of the most complete sections of the Blue Book is that devoted to the Judiciary. In addition to containing all data concerning the superior courts, it lists the circuit judges, gives a brief biographical sketch of each and the terms for holding court in each of the thirty-eight circuits.

The vote by precincts in all counties for all offices voted upon in 1920 is contained in a section of 251 pages.

The addenda at the end of the book gives all changes in the personnel of state departments up to the middle of December, 1921, and includes photographs of the four members of the new highway commission whose appointment was announced by the governor early in December.

A roster of the Missouri national guard contains names of members of the governor's personal staff and officers of the various companies throughout the state.

County Officers Included.

The section devoted to county officers, containing thirty-four pages, gives the name, position and politics of every county officer in the various counties of the state.

A list of every newspaper in the state, with its politics, and a history of all press associations in the state, is contained in the newspaper section.

A new feature of the Blue Book is a section devoted to the federal government, giving the chief employes of each department. There is also given a compilation showing the elective officers of all states, with their salaries. This shows that in thirty-two of the states the governor receives from $2,000 to $8,000 more a year in salary than the governor of Missouri, whose salary is $5,000 a year.

A complete history of the development of education in the state is contained in the section which gives detailed data concerning the educational institutions.

Tells of Highways

Another section is devoted to good roads and a history of the automobile clubs of the state. This department contains a map of the state highway system as laid out by the special session of the legislature which passed the law providing machinery for expenditure of the $60,000,000 road bond issue authorized by vote of the people.

Probably the most concise history of the state is contained in forty-four pages devoted to "Missouri's Century of Statehood." This section contains a general review of the last 100 years, prepared by Floyd C. Shoemaker of Columbia, secretary of the State Historical Society.

An interesting feature of this section is a chronologically arranged history of the state prepared by Miss Buel Leopard, of the State Historical Society.

A section of 116 pages devoted to political parties gives in detail almost any information which might be desired about any of the parties, national or state. It contains the platforms of all parties, national and state, in the last election and a list of the national committeeman, state chairmen of the county committees and even members of the county committees.

WELLS PREDICTS BRITISH EMPIRE WILL FALL.

London, Dec. 28.—"I hope and believe that one hundred years hence there will be no British Empire. Either it will have played its part in the development of civilization and have changed into and given place to a much larger union of free States, or it will have become a danger and a nuisance to mankind, and have followed German Imperialism and Roman Imperialism to the dust heap."

This is H. G. Wells' opinion of the British Empire a hundred years hence. It was read as a message from him at a dinner given by the Delphian Coterie, when the subject for consideration was "The Empire a Hundred Years Hence."

Lowry's Letter

A very noticeable effect on the Maryville matron at the Myrtle Tree social last night was their jealousy of the "actresses," however, it is hoped that there will be no divorce cases result.

Floyd Fakes is improving his hog feeding operations by the addition of a winter waterer, and E. D. Dawson is adding cheer to his wife's poultry yard by placing one of our large capacity poultry fountains therein.

C. E. Graham knows that his hogs can tell where they itch and that they will apply oil at the proper time and place if they have access to one of those easy rolling hog oilers. To clean them up, we have a few more at $5.00 and up.

Some Good Advice

Old Year—New Year

New Year, New Year,
What do you bring?
Your bag might hold
Anything!

Old Year, Old Year,
What will you do
With all the hope
That I gave you?

There is a moment
When you meet,
Like two travelers
On one street.

Old Year, New Year,
In the sky,
Out where the winds
And ghosts go by.

Old Year, Old Year
What do you say,
Meeting the New on
The Milky Way?

You took from me
Like a thief,
Larkspur joy and
Juniper grief.

But you leave me
One bright hour,
Glad like sun on
A crimson flower

This is mine
Eternally,
You may not
Take it from me!

New Year, New Year,
What do you
Hear as you pass him
In the blue?

Old Year, Old Year,
Where do you go,
Out on that path
Men do not know?

1921 WAS FILLED WITH BIG EVENTS

between Greece and the Turkish Nationalists, King Constantine went to Turkey and put himself at the head of his army. The Greeks advanced from the coast to the very gates of Angora—the Turkish Nationalist capitol—but were defeated and thrown back. The Powers have decided to intervene and restore peace.

The next biggest war was in Morocco, where the Riff tribesmen rose in arms against the Spanish. Spain has sent a big army to Morocco, but has not yet succeeded in putting down the rising.

Fighting in Hungary.

There was some fighting also in Hungary, when former Emperor Charles attempted to regain the Hungarian throne. The movement collapsed and Charles is now an exile upon the Island of Madeira.

A revolution broke out in Portugal which overturned the government. Conditions are still unsettled in Portugal, and the suggestion has been made that France, Spain and Italy intervene.

A small war began in the Balkans when the Albanians took up arms against the Servians. Albania claimed that Jugo-Slavia was encroaching upon her territory.

Although the Moscow Soviet maintained its power intact, there were a number of disturbances in Russia. A revolt began in Kronstadt, the great fortress defending Petrograd on the sea side, but was put down by Leon Trotzky after several days of desperate fighting. The latest uprising in Russia broke out in Ukraine. It was led by anti-Bolshevists, and there was violent fighting in and around Kiev, the Ukrainian capital.

Red Uprising in Germany.

There was a Red uprising in Middle Germany, but it collapsed.

Grave unrest broke out in India, where the Moplah tribesmen went upon the warpath against the British. Many have been killed in fighting. Despite the turbulence in India the Prince of Wales carried out his plans to visit that country.

Several times during the course of the year discord developed between Great Britain and France, and it looked for a time as though the entente between the two countries would break down entirely. Some of the causes of the dissensions were German indemnity, the Upper Silesian settlement, France's desire to invade the Ruhr district of Germany, the Graeco-Turkish war in the Near East and France's treaty with the Turkish Nationalists.

Premier Hara's Murder.

On the eve of the Washington conference, Premier Hara of Japan, was assassinated at Tokio. It was feared that the murder might affect Japan's policy at Washington, but apparently it did not. Shortly afterward Crown Prince Hirohito was made Regent of Japan because of the continued illness of the Emperior.

One of the biggest calamities of the year was the Russian famine. America took the leadership in giving relief but despite this assistance vast numbers of victims have succumbed, chiefly children.

There was a modification of the political principles of the Soviet Government during the year. Lenine put aside some of the most drastic of his political and economic principles and adopted "capitalistic methods."

Chamber of Commerce Nodaway County Films Shown—Pies, Doughnuts and Coffee Served

The meeting of the Myrtle Tree Farm Club at the Myrtle Tree M. E. Church last night was so well attended that seats could not be found for all and it was difficult to even find standing room for many.

The program given by the club was unique in that those taking part moved themselves back through the scale of life, some 10, some 20 and some even 40 years, and all the members of the club were boys again.

The welcome address was made by the president, A. L. Smith. The club then gave the club yell. The following was the remainder of the program:

Song, "Missouri Land"—the club.

Reading, "The Confession"—J. H. Neal.

Reading, "Tickled All Over" —Thomas O'Day.

Dialogue, "Ghost Story."

Reading, "Royal Bumper Degree" —A. L. Smith.

Recitation—Jim Riley.

Dialogue, "The Too Good-Looking Man."

Reading, "Our Whipping"—Will Bainum.

Recitation, "It is You"—Ernest Wray.

Song, "We Bid You All Good-Bye," —the club.

President R. P. Hosmer of the Chamber of Commerce made a short talk explaining the purpose of the Chamber of Commerce Nodaway County films. He emphasized the fact that the Chamber of Commerce was working for the good of the county, and not merely for the good of Maryville. He then showed how the interests of Maryville and of the county as a whole were intermingled and what was done for the good of Maryville or of any community or town in the county would indirectly help the rest of the county.

Four reels of the Chamber of Commerce Nodaway County film were shown. Mr. Hosmer explained the pictures as they were shown.

After the pictures doughnuts and pie and coffee were served to all in the basement of the church. There were forty seven pies.

Several members of the Maryville concert band went with the party and played between numbers. Those of the band who went were: C. D. Kutschinski, director, Henry Buhler, Lawrance Shanks, William Gaugh, George Bramble, Carol Hogan, Ferd Masters and Leon Cannon.

Arch Frank and Pete Dietz were also there. They were accused by several of the men of flirting with the "chorus girls" after the show.

Among the others from Maryville were: R. P. Hosmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Harold Bellows of Chicago, Joe Jackson, Fred Wolfers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Diss, Ralph Marcell, L. H. MISSOURI PACIFIC TRAIN HELD UP LAST NIGHT

Kansas City, Dec. 28—Police here are searching for bandits who robbed the express car of Joplin-Kansas City train of the Missouri Pacific of $952, last night.

L. H. Holland, an express clerk, was shot in the left leg while resisting the robbery.

The bandits boarded the train near Pleasant Hill, Mo., climbing up between the express and combination mail and baggage coaches.

When L. H. Holland, 26 years old, express clerk, 1620 Benton boulevard, attempted to pass from the express car to the combination coach a few miles west of Pleasant Hill, the bandits covered him with revolvers and forced him into the front car.

"Put 'em up high," the bandit leader commanded.

Holland dived for his revolver instead.

A shot rang out, as the taller bandit fired. One bullet grazed Holland's left side and the other fractured his left arm.

"Now you behave," came from the taller of the bandits as Holland fell.

Dragging the clerk into a corner of the car, the smaller bandit proceeded to search Holland.

The bandits took Holland's revolver, keys and money.

The bandits then rifled several boxes of express matter and forced a steel money box open, obtaining approximately $952, according to a hurried check by express company officials.

"Now we're going after the mail," the bandits informed Holland, "and we're going to lock you in here."

Retreating through the door, the bandits locked it and entered the mail and baggage coach. In the next half hour, before the train reached Sheffield, the bandits rifled more than a dozen mail sacks. A trail of slashed sacks and mail matter ripped open and scattered on the floor was left behind.

When the train neared Sheffield and slowed down, the bandits tossed off their loot and jumped to the ground. Police later found trails indicating accomplices met the bandits in Sheffield.

FAIRFAX FARMER COMMITS SUICIDE

SHOOT SELF IN HEAD WITH SHOT GUN

FINANCIAL WORRY CAUSE

Funeral Services Held This Afternoon Conducted by Rev. T. J. Puckett of Maryville

Frank McNeil, a prominent farmer of Atchison County, committed suicide Monday afternoon at his home three and one-half miles southwest of Fairfax. McNeil met death by placing the barrel of a shotgun in his mouth and pulling the trigger with a corn stalk. Death was instantaneous.

Despondency and financial worry were given as the cause for McNeil's actions. During the peak of high land prices, he had purchased considerable land and his financial condition had caused him great worry of late. For the last two or three weeks especially he had shown his burden of worry and at different times had told his family that he couldn't stand it much longer.

On Monday morning he left home with a neighbor to go out to the field to repair some fences, taking a shot gun with him to do some hunting.

As he did not return to the house for dinner, his family became uneasy about him and sent the hired man out to find the reason for his failure to return to dinner. Arriving at the field the hired man found McNeil roving about apparently in a demented state of mind. As the hired man approached him, McNeil placed the mouth of his shot gun in his mouth and with a cornstalk pulled the trigger. The entire top of his head was blown off by the charge and death was instantaneous.

Mr. McNeil is survived by his wife and five small children and his mother, who has been making her home with them. Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Irish Grove Church near Fairfax. Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Puckett of Maryville attended the funeral, Rev. Puckett conducting the funeral services. Burial was in the Irish Grove Cemetery.

PERSONNEL INDICATES ONLY PARTIAL REVISION

Many of Those Named So Far Known To Oppose Any Constitutional Changes

As the nomination of district delegates to the constitutional convention progresses, it is becomming increasingly apparent that the most that can be expected from the convention is a partial revision of the old constitution of 1875, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The type of district delegates nominated in a number of districts by the two party organizations indicates a well-laid plan to head off the drafting of a new constitution and the rejection of any considerable portion of the present constitution.

Under the present outlook there can be no reorganization of the state government, nor the elimination of any of the seriously restrictive features of the present constitution.

Gov. Hyde favors the reorganization of the executive branch of the government, and the reduction of the number of elective officials, but this, too, seems impossible of accomplishment under the present public and political temper.

Tax revision, which has been advocated by both political parties in their platform for many years, is likely to find rough sledding, due to the activities of country politicians, who favor the return to the old fractional basis.

The enfranchisement of women, it was expected, would have its effect in the shaping of the organic law, but it is apparent now that the women will have few delegates in the convention and little chance to put over their ideas of public health, education, social welfare and things of that nature.

1921 WAS FILLED WITH BIG EVENTS

OUTSTANDING DEVELOPMENT IS THE PACIFIC TREATY.

MANY PROBLEMS SOLVED

Calling of Armament Conference Second Important Move in Year Packed With Eventful News.

HIGH SPOTS IN 1921.

Washington—International conference moves to reduce sea armaments and prevent war in Far East through Four Power Arbitration Treaty.

Constantinople—War broke out between Turkish Nationalists and Greece.

Belgrade—War began between Albanians and Jugo-Slavs, but fighting has died down.

Lisbon — Portuguese government overthrown by revolution.

Budapest — Former Emperor Charles' attempt to regain Hungarian throne failed and Charles exiled.

Moscow—Famine takes heavy toll of human life in Russia.

Madrid—War broke out between Spanish and Riff tribesmen in Morocco.

Tokio—Premier Hara assassinated.

Berlin—Red revolt in Middle Germany put down.

Bombay—Moplah tribesmen on war path against British.

By Frank Charlton
International News Service Foreign News Editor.

New York, Dec. 28.—Since the armistice ended fighting in the great war there has not been a year so filled with events of world-wide importance as marked the course of 1921. International problems of the first magnitude have been settled, and 1922 dawns with conditions nearer to pre-war normal than at any other time since 1914.

The outstanding development was the drafting of the Four-Power Pacific Treaty at Washington by the United States, the British Empire, the Japanese Empire and France. This treaty aims to prevent war in the Far East—the Orient being the chief trouble zone at present. According to the terms of the pact, the signatory Powers shall submit any grievance to arbitration.

Armament Reduction.

Of almost equal ranking importance was the movement initiated by the United States for the reduction of navies and limitation of land armaments.

These two events, both of which grew out of the Washington conference have put the United States in an important new position in world politics. American isolation, which began to crumble during the great war, is now a thing of the past. The Powers must reckon with the United States in any big movement of international significance in the future.

Another big peace development which came at the end of the year was the Irish settlement. While Britain held the Irish problem to be a domestic issue, it is now generally admitted that it had ramifications outside of the United Kingdom which fostered trouble and unrest. Credit for the settlement of this seven-century-old problem goes to Premier Lloyd George, the wizard of British politics.

After holding out and threatening trouble for the Allies, Germany finally accepted the Allies' indemnity demands. Under the terms of the ultimatum imposed last spring, Germany is bound to pay about $38,000,000,000. Here again the United States figured Germany appealed to this country, but Secretary of State Hughes advised Germany to settle upon the Allies' conditions.

Threatening Polish War.

The Silesian issue, which caused an armed uprising and for a time threatened war between Germany and Poland, was settled by the League of Nations without outside interference. Upper Silesia (which had been a German province before the war) was partitioned, part going to Germany and part to Poland. Germany resisted the decision, but was bound to accept it.

There was considerable fighting in 1921. War broke out in the Near East

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, was today granted a divorce from Harold F. McCormick, president of the International Harvester Co., in a hearing that lasted for less than a half hour. She charged that Harold McCormick had deserted her. The difficulties between the McCormicks has long been known to be near the breaking point. They were married in 1895 and two children have been born to the union.

Administration Will Welcome Action on the Protection Clause of Four-Power Agreement.

French delegates went into conference prepared to announce the acceptance of the 1.75 ratio for the capital ships of France and absolute rejection of the submarine offer placing France in an inferior position.

DROPPING THE "NUISANCE TAXES."

The buzzing crowd around the soda fountains and soft drink places, like flies around molasses, will not be unduly elated over the repeal of the war tax on this class of products. The majority of these people ar spenders, and may not have been deterred much by these taxes.

But retail merchants who sell refreshments and various little articles covered by the so-called "nuisance taxes," are more than pleased to escape this burden. These assessments necessitate much bookkeeping, and merchants fuss over them a good deal, fearing to make some error that would involve collision with the government.

More time and effort is required to run a store when these taxes have to be computed and it adds to the cost of doing business. Some of these articles are to be taxed at the source, which is where the assessment should fall if it is to be placed at all. Taxing retail trade adds to the already too high expense of distributing.

As the early bird gets the worm, so does the early apple.

Eugene V. Debs enjoys freedom again as a Christmas gift from President Harding. Mr. Debs has been domiciled for some time in the Atlanta federal penitentiary. His stay there should inspire him with more respect for the government that shelters him and his liberation should give him more love for it.

Hundreds of thousands of jobless men have cut loose from their moorings, says the Jefferson City Capital-News. They are drifting about the country, seeking work on "the other side of the hill." A census taken now would show great changes in population during the last year. "For Rent" signs are becoming increasingly numerous in cities. That shows one of the human currents—away from the cities, back to the farms and small towns. Business depression is re-districting the population.

MICHIGAN TO HAVE HUMANE AND SCIENTIFIC PRISON

Detroit, Dec. 28—Overcrowding of Michigan prisons makes it impossible to extend to their inmates many privileges they otherwise would have, but many flagrant abuses have been corrected, and plans to give Michigan the most enlightened, humane and scientific prison system in the United States already are being put into effect, Governor Alex J. Groesbeck has anounced.

No doubt all of us have thought many times these holidays of those Yuletide days in the yester years at the old home, of the parties, the bobsled parties, and all the innocent revelry of those happy days. It does us good to let memory wander back during these days.

A clerk in a store was ordered by the manager to open a big box of goods in the back room. Obituary

Josiah Lawson Scott., a familiar figure on our streets and a substantial citizen of the community, after a brief illness died at his home, 215 West Seventh Street, Christmas evening at 5:30, aged 67 years 2 months and 8 days. He was the son of Alexander, Easter and Eleanor Barnes Scott and was born October 17, 1854 near Smithfield, Jefferson County, Ohio and was one of a family of eight children, four sons and four daughters only two of whom survive him viz. Mrs. John K. Sawyers of Maryville, Mo. and Mrs. Henry A. Sawyers of St. Joseph, Mo.

On March 24, 1880 he was united in marriage to Miss Rachel A. Dunlap of Harrison County, Ohio. He and his bride at once came West, settling upon the farm near Maryville where they resided until a few years ago when they removed to the present home in Maryville. To the union three children were born, Jessie B. who died in 1883 when only 2 years of age; Emmet Foster and Clark Ray who with the mother and five grand children survive.

He was a life long member of the Presbyterian church and came of a long line of Presbyterian ancestry some of whom had a conspicuous part in founding the Synods of New York and Pennsylvania and in establishing Princeton University and Washington and Jefferson College. His grandfather, Abram Scott was a Presbyterian minister and his father a Ruling Elder in the church till the time of his death.

Funeral services were conducted in the Presbyterian Church of Maryville by Rev. S. P. Allison, Tuesday afternoon, December 27, at 2 o'clock after which his remains were laid to rest in Miriam cemetery.

Things You Don't Know, But Should---About Missouri

Do you know—

That only seven former governors of the state are living and that only one man has ever been governor more than one term?

That Taum Sauk mountain, in Iron county, is the highest point in Missouri?

That the lowest ground is at Cottonwood Point, in Pemiscot county?

Hundreds of such bits of interesting and unusual information are contained in the 1921-22 "Centennial" Blue Book of the state, the first copies of which were received here yesterday by State Senators David M. Proctor and M. E. Casey.

This year's Blue Book is the most comprehensive ever issued since the first edition in 1854. It contains 912 pages.

The volume was prepared by Charles W. Fear of Joplin, under supervision of Secretary of State Charles U. Becker. Distribution will be through the state senators and representatives. Each senator will receive within the next week or ten days 100 copies and each representative fifty copies for distribution to their constituents. Heretofore distribution has been handled by the secretary of state direct.

Former Officials Listed.

A list of all elective state officers who have served since the state was admitted to the Union is given in the section devoted to executive officials. This tabulation shows that the seven former governors of the state now living are David R. Francis, elected in 1888, now residing in St. Louis; Lon B. Stephens, elected in 1896, residing in St. Louis; Alexander M. Dockery, elected in 1900, now residing in Gallatin; Joseph W. Folk, elected in 1904, now residing in St. Louis; Herbert S. Hadley, elected in 1908, now residing in Boulder, Colo.; Elliott M. Major, elected in 1912, now residing in St. Louis, and Frederick D. Gardner, elected in 1916, now residing in St. Louis.

The first governor was Alexander McNair of St. Louis, who was elected in August, 1820. He died March 18, 1826. Governor Hyde is the thirty-sixth chief executive of the state.

The only man who has served more than one term was John Miller of Cooper county. He was first elected December 8, 1825, at a special election called to fill a vacancy, was again elected at the regular election in August, 1828.

Leads in Population Gains.

The percentage of increase in population in Kansas City from 1910 to 1920 is greater than that of any other city in the state for the same period, according to figures given in the census section. It shows that the population of 324,410 in Kansas City in 1920 is 30.6 per cent greater than the 1910 census. During the same period Springfield increased 12.6 per cent; St. Louis 12.5 Joplin 6.8 per cent and St. Joseph only seven-tenths of 1 per cent. Details of the census of all cities and counties of the state are given.

Missouri was 100 years old in 1920 and in commemoration of the observance of the 100th anniversary of the admission of the state the Blue Book gives a detailed history of the official centennial observance.

State's Highest Point Given.

Taum Sauk mountain, in Iron county, six miles southwest of Ironton, is the highest point in the state, 1,800 feet above sea level, according to information furnished the Blue Book by H. A. Buehler of the bureau of geology and mines.

Other high points are Buford mountain, three miles west of Iron mountain, 1,700 feet; Big Creek mountain, near Taum Sauk, 1,700 feet, and historic Pilot Knob, also in Iron county, 1,500 feet. All are in the St. Francois mountain range. The lowest point in the state is Cottonwood Point, 229 feet above sea level. It is located on the Mississippi river in the exterme southeast corner of the state. The elevation of Kansas City is 722 feet.

Everything About the Judiciary.

One of the most complete sections of the Blue Book is that devoted to the Judiciary. In addition to containing all data concerning the superior courts, it lists the circuit judges, gives a brief biographical sketch of each and the terms for holding court in each of the thirty-eight circuits.

The vote by precincts in all counties for all offices voted upon in 1920 is contained in a section of 251 pages.

The addenda at the end of the book gives all changes in the personnel of state departments up to the middle of December, 1921, and includes photographs of the four members of the new highway commission whose appointment was announced by the governor early in December.

A roster of the Missouri national guard contains names of members of the governor's personal staff and officers of the various companies throughout the state.

County Officers Included.

The section devoted to county officers, containing thirty-four pages, gives the name, position and polities of every county officer in the various counties of the state.

A list of every newspaper in the state, with its politics, and a history of all press associations in the state, is contained in the newspaper section.

A new feature of the Blue Book is a section devoted to the federal government, giving the chief employes of each department. There is also given a compilation showing the elective officers of all states, with their salaries. This shows that in thirty-two of the states the governor receives from $2,000 to $8,000 more a year in salary than the governor of Missouri, whose salary is $5,000 a year.

A complete history of the development of education in the state is contained in the section which gives detailed data concerning the educational institutions.

Tells of Highways

Another section is devoted to good roads and a history of the automobile clubs of the state. This department contains a map of the state highway system as laid out by the special session of the legislature which passed the law providing machinery for expenditure of the $60,000,000 road bond issue authorized by vote of the people.

Probably the most concise history of the state is contained in forty-four pages devoted to "Missouri's Century of Statehood." This section contains a general review of the last 100 years, prepared by Floyd C. Shoemaker of Columbia, secretary of the State Historical Society.

An interesting feature of this section is a chronologically arranged history of the state prepared by Miss Buel Leopard, of the State Historical Society.

A section of 116 pages devoted to political parties gives in detail almost any information which might be desired about any of the parties, national or state. It contains the platforms of all parties, national and state, in the last election and a list of the national committeeman, state chairmen of the county committees and even members of the county committees.

WELLS PREDICTS BRITISH EMPIRE WILL FALL.

London, Dec. 28.—"I hope and believe that one hundred years hence there will be no British Empire. Either it will have played its part in the development of civilization and have changed into and given place to a much larger union of free States, or it will have become a danger and a nuisance to mankind, and have followed German Imperialism and Roman Imperialism to the dust heap."

This is H. G. Wells' opinion of the British Empire a hundred years hence. It was read as a message from him at a dinner given by the Delphian Coterie, when the subject for consideration was "The Empire a Hundred Years Hence."

Some Good Advice

Old Year—New Year

New Year, New Year,
What do you bring?
Your bag might hold
Anything!

Old Year, Old Year,
What will you do
With all the hope
That I gave you?

There is a moment
When you meet,
Like two travelers
On one street.

Old Year, New Year,
In the sky,
Out where the winds
And ghosts go by.

Old Year, Old Year
What do you say,
Meeting the New on
The Milky Way?

You took from me
Like a thief,
Larkspur joy and
Juniper grief.

But you leave me
One bright hour,
Glad like sun on
A crimson flower

This is mine
Eternally,
You may not
Take it from me!

New Year, New Year,
What do you
Hear as you pass him
In the blue?

Old Year, Old Year,
Where do you go,
Out on that path
Men do not know?

Kleiser in Y. M. C. C. Central.

To Welcome the New Year.

A PRETTY ceremony handed down from the past is to open the front door promptly on the stroke of midnight for the passing of the old year to join the centuries of the past, and for the entrance of the baby new year, who is just about to commence his earthly career.

1921 WAS FILLED WITH BIG EVENTS

between Greece and the Turkish Nationalists, King Constantine went to Turkey and put himself at the head of his army. The Greeks advanced from the coast to the very gates of Angora—the Turkish Nationalist capitol—but were defeated and thrown back. The Powers have decided to intervene and restore peace.

The next biggest war was in Morocco, where the Riff tribesmen rose in arms against the Spanish. Spain has sent a big army to Morocco, but has not yet succeeded in putting down the rising.

Fighting in Hungary.

There was some fighting also in Hungary, when former Emperor Charles attempted to regain the Hungarian throne. The movement collapsed and Charles is now an exile upon the Island of Madeira.

A revolution broke out in Portugal which overturned the government. Conditions are still unsettled in Portugal, and the suggestion has been made that France, Spain and Italy intervene.

A small war began in the Balkans when the Albanians took up arms against the Servians. Albania claimed that Jugo-Slavia was encroaching upon her territory.

Although the Moscow Soviet maintained its power intact, there were a number of disturbances in Russia. A revolt began in Kronstadt, the great fortress defending Petrograd on the sea side, but was put down by Leon Trotzky after several days of desperate fighting. The latest uprising in Russia broke out in Ukraine. It was led by anti-Bolshevists, and there was violent fighting in and around Kiev, the Ukrainian capital.

Red Uprising in Germany.

There was a Red uprising in Middle Germany, but it collapsed.

Grave unrest broke out in India, where the Moplah tribesmen went upon the warpath against the British. Many have been killed in fighting. Despite the turbulence in India the Prince of Wales carried out his plans to visit that country.

Several times during the course of the year discord developed between Great Britain and France, and it looked for a time as though the entente between the two countries would break down entirely. Some of the causes of the dissensions were German indemnity, the Upper Silesian settlement, France's desire to invade the Ruhr district of Germany, the Graeco-Turkish war in the Near East and France's treaty with the Turkish Nationalists.

Premier Hara's Murder.

On the eve of the Washington conference, Premier Hara of Japan, was assassinated at Tokio. It was feared that the murder might affect Japan's policy at Washington, but apparently it did not. Shortly afterward Crown Prince Hirohito was made Regent of Japan because of the continued illness of the Emperior.

One of the biggest calamities of the year was the Russian famine. America took the leadership in giving relief but despite this assistance vast numbers of victims have succumbed, chiefly children.

There was a modification of the political principles of the Soviet Government during the year. Lenine put aside some of the most drastic of his political and economic principles and adopted "capitalistic methods."

Don't Just Put It In Your Window

Here you have a new brand of raisins, or hair nets, or garden tools.

And you naturally want quick turnover.

What do you do?

First you "dress up" your show-window—a good start. And you arrange the counter cards and circulars the manufacturer sent you. Good again. And you may write to some of your best customers. Good.

The next step is to tell the whole town about that window and those circulars. How? Through your local newspaper.

A good ad will bring the buyers Call attention to your display. Talk up that new brand. Make folks come to your store. Then you can sell them.

Make friends with your local editor. He sells the space which sells your goods.
